FANTASY PSEUDONYMS

(This is a fairly accurate and complete list, according to several well-known fans. It represents the investigations of many people over a period of many years. In cases where a publisher or author denies that a certain pen-name belongs to a certain author, it is not listed. But if the people who know won't talk, but the evidence points to "yes," in the opinion of most fans, then the name is listed. In a few cases, especially "Alexander Blade" of the Ziff-Davis magazines, the same name is used by several authors. These "house names" are listed under the writer who is believed to have used them most. In the case of women who write under their maiden names, their married names are shown in parentheses. The underlined names are the writers' actual names; others are the pseudonyms.)
